

Good morning KTLA-5,

You may have heard, its Girl Scout Cookie season!

While our younger Girl Scouts are more well known for thriving during cookie season closing sales with smiles that are missing teeth and innocent pigtails, did you know that Girl Scouts supports girls all the way through High School Graduation?

As your news channel already has a community spotlight, I thought it would be a great idea to highlight some of the communities' Senior (grades 9 and 10) and Ambassador (grades 11-12) Girl Scouts. These young women are future leaders and are involved with community service projects, taking on leadership roles, and some are founding their own organizations! Many of these accomplished Girl Scouts will go on to earn their Gold Award-the highest honor for a Girl Scout.

Featuring Girl Scout stories that highlights the outstanding work these young ladies are accomplishing will raise awareness for projects happening within the community and will allow them to promote their own cookie sales-a task that Girl Scouts report struggling with as they progress through the Girl Scout ranks.

Girl Scout Cooke Presales are happening now, and you will see our Girls out in your neighborhoods hosting sales booths beginning Saturday February 12th.

I would love to connect you to outstanding and accomplished Senior and Ambassador Girl Scouts within the Los Angeles Area.

Thank you,

Teresa Babin-Lincoln

Troop 747 Leader
